BRISTOW WANTS HOPKINS ALUMNI SHARE FOR KANSAS TO HEAR BRUSH

Kick on Marshall Statue, Unless Somebody in His Own State Is Honored Also.

In a letter to P. H. C. Cabell, president of the Richmond Bar Association, Senator Bristow, of Kansas, states that he does not expect to oppose the erection of a statue of John Marshall in the Federal Building in this city, but that he wants his share of what is going on for his own state.

Writing to Senator Bristow on February 6, Mr. Cabell regretted that the Kansas had defeated consideration of the bill reported by the Library Committee making the appropriation for the Marshall statue. He assumed that Mr. Bristow wanted somebody from Kansas similarly honored, presumably the late Justice Brewer. On this point, Mr. Cabell thought Justice Brewer big enough to stand before Congress on his own merits without being backed up to the Marshall bill, and added that if the late Supreme Court justice were alive, he would be the last man in the United States to oppose a Marshall statue, since he was one of the great chief justices.

In his response, Senator Bristow says he "believe" that if the government places statues of distinguished jurists or statesmen in public places in different States, his own State will receive the same consideration. As to whether or not the government should adopt such a policy is a different question, but if it does, all States should certainly be treated alike.

GOVERNOR GOING TO LEAGUE MEET

Speculation Regarding Criticism of His Attitude Toward Jordan Bill.

Much interest is being felt in the attitude that will be taken by leaders of the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia, which meets in Roanoke next week, toward Governor Mann. It is felt that criticism of his attitude toward the Jordan enabling act in the Legislature last winter is more than possible. The Governor will attend the meeting and will, it is supposed, be fully able to take care of himself.

In reply to strictures directed at him by Rev. Henry Fearce Atkins, then president of the league, was easily the most interesting feature of the meeting at Newport News two years ago. The voice of Virginia's Governor was not raised loud and long when the Strode bill was before the Senate of Virginia. That bill had been defeated at the session of the Legislature preceding the Newport News meeting. Governor Mann thereupon added a reply to his prepared speech, which he delivered the last day of the conference. He called attention to his temperance record and to the measures of which he was the author, which put out of business more saloons than did all the campaigns of the league. He further suggested that Mr. Atkins, when older, would know better than to criticize a fellow-worker on a question of method.

A bill very similar to the Strode measure, known as the Jordan bill, was defeated last winter, and it is possible some one may direct further criticism at the Governor for not advocating its passage more strenuously.

BUDGET COMPLETED

Subcommittee Makes Tentative Draft for Discussion at Friday Night.

The budget subcommittee of the Council on Finance finished its work yesterday after several days of close study of the various items with the aid of Special Accountant George S. Crawford. The papers tabulated to be reported to the Committee on Finance at a meeting on Saturday night. As several members of the committee will be out of the city next week, it is reported to the Council before the night, February 14, when a special meeting will probably be held to receive it.

PRIMARIES CALLED EARLY IN AUGUST

State Committee Selects Date for Nomination of Governor and Elective Officers.

PRIMARY PLAN IS REVISED

No Change Made in Subcommittee's Work—Basis of Local Committees Fixed.

A Democratic primary for the nomination of party candidates for State elective offices was called last night by the Democratic State Committee for Tuesday, August 5, 1913, from sunrise to sunset. Candidates for office must file their names with the chairman of the committee by noon Friday, June 6, having previously paid their entrance fees to the Treasurer of the Commonwealth.

The action followed adoption by the committee of the revised primary plan as reported by the subcommittee, which met for the last time yesterday afternoon at the residence of State Chairman J. Taylor Ellyson. At this final session the subcommittee further changed the plan to the extent that the time limit for holding primaries, heretofore placed between sixty and ninety days in advance of the general election, was eliminated, leaving the date optional with the State, district, county or city committee, as the case may be.

WILL ENFORCE BUILDING LAW

Administrative Board Directs Butler to See That Builders Do Not Encroach on Streets.

In a resolution adopted unanimously yesterday, the Administrative Board instructed Building Inspector Butler to enforce the city ordinance of May 8, 1912, regarding the placing of building material in the streets. The ordinance clearly specifies that how much of the street in front of a new building the contractor may occupy with material, what clearance must be given to street car lines, and how the gutters must be kept open. It gives the contractor no right to store material in immediate use in the streets, or to make a brickyard of the streets for the use of old material, or to store building material in front of adjoining premises during construction.

The board yesterday directed the heads of all city departments under its control that legal opinions be obtained by the departments must be secured through the Administrative Board, and be made a matter of record in its files.

The board received a communication from the City Engineer in regard to the condition of an alley south of Monument Avenue, between Allison and Addison Streets, which was paved four years ago, but which has since been covered with mud that the inspectors are unable to determine the character and condition of the paving. The attention of the Street Cleaning Department was called to the alley.

A large number of reports from the City Electric Plant were received and some supplies for the plant ordered pursuant to a recommendation of Superintendent Leffert. After a conference with Chief Health Officer E. C. Levy in reference to the unsanitary condition of the Second Market, the board informed the clerk of that market to notify all stall vendors that they must keep their stalls subject to the State sanitary laws, and to the supervision of the State Food Inspector.

Mr. Garrett, who will be in charge of the new hotel, was directed to see that the hotel was subject to the State sanitary laws, and to the supervision of the State Food Inspector.

SUFFRAGE LEAGUE TALK

Address to the Women.

The petition of the "Referendum" was comprehensively and enthusiastically treated by Christopher B. Garrett, head of the department of law in Richmond College, yesterday afternoon at the Equal Suffrage League of Virginia at 800 East Broad Street.

Mr. Garrett gave the history of the origin and development of what has come to be known as "The Initiative and Referendum." Through the Oriental nations, among whom the right of citizenship was known, the movement to active participation in the government, to the Roman idea, in which the people were known as "citizens," to union; down to the Swiss and English and American ideas, in which long struggle has been going on, the movement was traced to its present stage of evolution.

Mr. Garrett quoted Woodrow Wilson frequently, and was heard with close attention.

Miss Valentine introduced Mr. Garrett to his audience, and closed the meeting with an account of her recent visit to the League of Women Voters.

Miss Johnston, who is to be in charge of the new hotel, was directed to see that the hotel was subject to the State sanitary laws, and to the supervision of the State Food Inspector.

Nearly 3,000 Cases of Measles.

The official death rate from measles was reduced yesterday, when medical inspectors for the Health Department decided that one of the ten deaths charged to the disease had really been caused by diphtheria. This brings the total of deaths in the present epidemic down to nine, which is regarded as remarkably low. Sixty-five new cases were reported yesterday, making 950 in all, or a grand total of 2,957 since the epidemic first showed itself last November.

MUST HELP COLORED FOLK

Association Anxious to Reach Every Class—Able Talk by Miss Crandall.

Meeting for the eleventh time in annual session, the Instructive Visiting Nurses' Association last night gained added encouragement to continue its great work, through the glowing reports of its officers, topped off with a highly entertaining address by Miss Ella Phillips Crandall, of New York. The meeting was held in the auditorium of the John Marshall High School, and was well attended by members and patrons of the association.

Miss Crandall, executive secretary of the newly-organized National Organization for Public Health Nursing, was the principal speaker. She is also connected with the department of nursing and health at the Teachers' College, Columbia University, and had facts and figures, which showed remarkable conditions. Her talk dealt mainly with the development of nursing and the standardizing of such work in order to bring about greater efficiency.

Preceding Miss Crandall, Dr. Douglas Freeman, of the State Health Department, presented some facts of interest concerning the personnel of the association. In general, conditions are shown to be good, and she expresses satisfaction with the board and its co-operation.

TAILORS DECIDE TO MEET IN RICHMOND NEXT YEAR

Dabney's Speech Captures National Convention, Taking It Away From Baltimore and Philadelphia, With Nathan Simon's Aid.

Telegram from Cleveland last night announced that the Merchant Tailors' National Association had decided to hold its next annual convention in Richmond in February, 1914. In capturing the prize Richmond had to defeat Baltimore and Philadelphia, although William T. Dabney, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce, found no great difficulty in that task, once he got started. There were about 600 delegates, representing every big city in the country, and the display of fine garments was such that Cleveland quit work on the day it started.

Unconfirmed reports stated that Mr. Dabney's speech really won the association. While Nathan Simon was rounding up the delegates, who were resting in various parts of the hotel, Mr. Dabney got ready for the big speech, and when Nathan gave him a signal from the gallery he cut loose with a flood of oratory that staggered the spiers from Philadelphia and Baltimore.

ORPHAN ASYLUM HAS FIFTY BOYS

Mrs. Gill Presents Details of Work to Board of Directors.

In her report to the board of directors of the Richmond Male Orphan Society, Mrs. J. H. Gill, the superintendent, presents some facts of interest concerning the personnel of the boys under her care. In general, conditions are shown to be good, and she expresses satisfaction with the board and its co-operation.

"We have now fifty boys under our care," says Mrs. Gill, in the report. "We have some excellent children here, while it is to be expected that among so large a number there will be many who have not been trained to be good. Our doors are open to many who are not orphans. The cause—broken homes, poverty, and other circumstances—make the lives of many children miserable, not due to death alone. We have nine full orphans. There are three whose fathers are dead and whose mothers are living. Five have mothers living, while the fathers are in insane asylums, with apparently no hope of recovery. The remaining twenty-eight have mothers, but their fathers are dead."

Such instruction as the board can give to the boys is imparted entirely in the asylum. They are taught the three R's and are carried further in general education. They are employed to some extent in the greenhouses, where they learn to cultivate flowers. In fact, there is a constant demand from florists for boys from this asylum, and some of them have attained lucrative positions. Usually the boys are kept in the asylum until they are twenty, although in some cases some times arise making it desirable to let them go earlier, such as remarriage of the mother. Such cases are investigated before the boys are released. "Charles," Gill noted, "is the only boy who has escaped measles, of which not a single case has appeared, although there are several in every house in the neighborhood."

The Richmond Male Orphan Asylum makes no appeals for public contributions. It is governed by a board of directors composed as follows: John L. Williams, president; General James G. Earnest, vice-president; James G. Earnest, secretary; John S. Ellett, treasurer; S. H. Hawes, T. J. Todd, Frank T. Sutton, L. T. Christian, E. J. Tisher, Gordon Wallace, Wm. W. A. Moncreux, W. E. Word, Thomas P. Boring, Anne Morrisette, Dr. T. D. Merrick, O. S. Morton and S. S. P. Patterson.

The Higher Critics.

Who are the "Higher Critics"? They are scholars men who are searching for truth in the Bible. They are not, as many suppose, the enemies of the Bible or of religion. Their work is in the interest of no particular dogma or sect. They go to the Bible, not to find new teachings to sustain a certain system of theology, but to find the truth concerning this wonderful library of literature. They are to be feared only by those who fear the truth will upset some pet theory.—Unitarian Publicity Committee.—Advertisement.

BOY-HUBBY ARRESTED

Wife Wants Support From Youth She Married at Thirteen.

Sadie Moses, a youthful Syrian bride, who was married at thirteen, was taken to a thirteen-year-old spouse, had Nackley Moses, the object of her former affection, arrested yesterday on the charge of nonsupport. The husband furnished bail for his appearance in court this morning.

Moses said he married Sadie in Syria at the age of thirteen, and later separated from her. Later he came to America to live. Sadie followed some two months ago, and took up her abode at 1316 East Main Street, and becoming acquainted with the nice American law that forces husbands to contribute to the support of wives, decided that she had scraped around for her own living long enough, and had the recalcitrant hubby arrested.
